

CONSULAR AND TRAVEL

ABOUT US

U.S. Embassy Singapore consists of 19 U.S. Federal Government agencies working in Singapore and the region.

Through the U.S. Embassy, the United States maintains a strong bilateral relationship with the Government of Singapore and stands ready to assist American Citizens in Singapore, many of whom work for American businesses with offices in this country.

GLOBAL ENTRY

The United States was pleased to open Global Entry eligibility to include Singaporean citizens in June 2016. Singapore is the first ASEAN country to be in the program. Singapore in turn allowed Americans to apply for its enhanced-Immigration Automated Clearance System (eIACS) under the Trusted Traveler Program (TTP).

U.S. Embassy Singapore is the only U.S. Embassy to offer regular Global Entry and APEC Business Traveler Card interviews, saving regional applicants a lengthy trip back to the U.S. to complete their interview process.

The U.S. Embassy Consular Section's most important function is to protect U.S. citizens abroad through the provision of routine, special, and emergency services. It also facilitates legitimate travel to the United States through the issuance of U.S. passports and visas while safeguarding America's borders. Visas issued to foreign nationals help the U.S. economy, unite families through immigration, and further strengthen the bilateral and people-to-people ties between Singapore and the United States.

The United States works closely with Singapore to share best practices in aviation security methodology including the latest security technologies, policies and procedures. Singaporeans who join Global Entry are eligible for TSA Pre ✓, a trusted traveler program allowing eligible participants access to expedited screening lanes in the United States when traveling with participating airlines.

The United States is constantly working with Singapore to increase airline passenger security through the use of advanced passenger information (API) and passenger name record (PNR). This gives border authorities the ability to make advance decisions on passengers of interest, including possible terrorists, prior to their boarding the aircraft.
